

World's Most Prominent Enemy
By Lauren Budd

I live here, dwell here,
use others to my advantage
Selfish am I . . .
the works of evil consciousness eating away from the depths of my soul
All ten million humans dwelling in Michigan
alone,
Selfish are we . . .
worrying of only one's self
Me me me we think
Give all attention whether good or bad,
I want all attention on me.
Shots fired off all around us and not giving it a second thought, but a common ally of news casts.
Barbaric are we . . .
no better than Hitler himself?
Killers, Sinners, Haters, World's Most Prominent Enemy are we . . .
bully others to feel as if we are not equal but a greater more superior being.
Did some glorious, wondrous being give us Mother Earth gorgeous in her splendor only to Kill, sin, hate, bully?
This greater being who has sent us life and has sent us here to make gorgeous Mother Earth
a ruin,
but dwell in her glorious beauty.
We must now make the change that our gorgeous Mother Earth needs and most definitely deserves.
Be the change we need to see.
